THE POST-OFFICE REPORT.

The report of the Post Master General, Dr. Ramon Carcano, for 1888, is a valuable book, a credit to the Post-office and the publishers who have issued the work in the very best style of the art. We cannot let this opportunity slip to conntratulate Dr. Carcano on the radical reforms he has introduced into the postal service. Before he took over the management chaos reigned supreme, and the complaints of the public were innumerable: to-day, after three years' hard work and persevering efforts the department has been put on a respectable footing and, making allowance for the long distances and difficult means of communication throughout the Republic, can compare favorably with the European postal organizations, the lines of which Dr. Carcano has carefully studied and followed. There is still much room for improvement, but wonders have been achieved in the last three years, and we have much pleasure in giving the talented Head of the Post-office the full credit of a reform that the public appreciates and never expected in such a short span.

Until recently the Post-office was the most neglected department of the Government and that neglect was the cause of the disorganization that set in and defied the industry of so many Post Masters until a gradual weeding-out and reform began of late years. Even to the present day the budget of the Post-office is very meagre and must be increased considerably to improve the service by improving the personel and their remuneration: and here we may add that the Post-office clerks are the hardest worked employees of the Government.

Looking at the postal budget for the last five years, we see

|---|---|
| 1884 | 1,128,600 $ |
| 1884 | 2,440,652 |
| 1886 | 1,633,824 |
| 1887 | 1,730,498 |
| 1888 | 2,963,440 |

Turning to the figures of postal traffic we see a wonderful progress as revealed by the following figures:

| | 1887 | 1888 |
|---|---|---|
| Letters | 21,629,672 | 33,661,030 |
| Papers | 21,174,038 | 27,974,099 |

The figures of 1888 show an increase of no less than 42o/o: compared with 1885, the postal movement has more than doubled.

The total traffic in 1888 amounted to 62,827,819 letters, papers, cards, etc. This gives a ratio of 6.6 letters and 5.6 papers per head of a population calculated at five million souls. Nothing could be more interesting than a comparison of the Argentine postal ratio per head with that of other countries: the Argentine figures we append are for 1888, those of foreign countries for 1881.

Ratio of letters and papers per inhabitant:

|---|---|
| United Kingdom | 49 |
| France | 36 |
| Germany | 20 |
| Russia | 2 |
| Austria | 16 |
| Italy | 13 |
| Spain | 7 |
| Portugal | 6 |
| Belgium | 36 |
| Holland | 30 |
| Denmark | 27 |
| Sweden - Norway | 12 |
| Switzerland | 46 |
| Greece | 2 |
| Roumania | 2 |
| Europe | 20 |
| United States | 45 |
| Canada | 18 |
| Australia | 27 |
| India | 1 |
| Japan | 2 |
| Argentine Republic | 12 |
| The World | 13 |

The Argentine ratio is still very low, more or less that of Italy ten years ago Still if increased facilities were offered in the postal service in the interior the ratio in this country would be much larger, as up to the present day a large portion of the correspondence is transmitted by private hand up country. Nevertheless, the figures for 1888 show a great advance over 1887 and the least we can hope is that 1890 will show the same steady progress.

LONDON LETTER

HOME POLITICS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Jan. 23rd.

Old Mumblings and New Rumblings. January is fading. The year will soon be one month old. Already we see in the newspapers paragraphs headed "The University Boat Race." In a few days we shall have in the Times the dreary columns of parliamentary reports. The Queen, as you know and as was expected, will not open parliament in person. She prefers Osborne. She suffers from rheumatism and has no idea of wearing a low dress in the chill air of the middle of February. She is quite right. She is wiser than her prime minister. She knows that the stability of the monarchy in this country does not depend upon pageants, and in fact the less the monarch is in evidence the better are the chances of the crown Those chances depend upon public opinion, which at this moment is unreadable. It represents the swash of a broken wave, whilst eyes and ears are waiting for a new wave with different tidings to those told by the Victorian era, which with its grand generation of Peels and Palmerstons, Russells and Gladstones, is as good as past.

Mr. Gladstone spoke and spoke well at Chester yesterday. Mr. Goschen spoke at Prince's Hall, Piccadilly. If you take your history from the leading columns of the Times you will find that Mr. Goschen's address was "vigorous and most interesting" whilst Mr. Gladstone only "mumbled the remainder biscuit of old and bitter recrimination." The truth is that it Mr. Gladstone did tell us for the hundredth time that he was Scotch by extraction from the top of his head to the sole of his foot, his speech was singularly varied and brisk compared with some of his later efforts, whilst the Chancellor of the Exchequer in trouble about his surplus and under restraint by reason of the approach of the session, and therefore fearful of anticipating the Queen's speech, was more hopelessly "old clo" in manner, voice and matter than usual. It is rather a joke that Mr. Goschen should cackle over his unhatched chickens and complain that the coming surplus had been bulled and anticipations as to its amount had been exaggerated, just at the moment when the artistic world at least it moved by a quarrel between the Pall Mall Gazette and Punch over a cartoon representing Mr. Goschen as an old hen sitting on her eggs—the surplus—not yet countable as chickens. Mr. Gould, the Pall Mall Gazette artist, was first in the field, as his cartoon appeared in the last P. M. Budget nearly a week before Mr. Tenniel's in Punch, but with very slight differences they are both alike. Such a brilliant idea might have occurred to two great minds independently. The sting of the matter, however, is that Mr. Burnand was not long ago very much down upon the P.M.G. for copying one of Tenniel's cartoons. Now it is the turn of the P M. G. whose editor—alas! no longer Mr. Stead—quietly reminds Mr. Burnand that if he wants to avoid an action for breach of copy right he had better say something civil. Burnand is not exactly the man to say anything too civil, but we await with some interest the next number of Punch. I think if Mr. Burnand would look up the back numbers of Punch he would find more or less the same cartoon and more than once within the last forty years. To quarrel over priority of invention of a design so obvious and common would make the two artists and the two papers ridiculous.

Mr. Goschen in his speech apologized for any faults of style in his language, for if there were any signs of "bill draftsman" English in what he was saying, it must be due to his having done nothing else for weeks but read drafts of new bills. He gave us to understand that not only could the Government not be accused in Mr. Henry Fowler's demagogic language of "beggarly legislation" in the past, but they were preparing fresh surprises for the coming session. What these surprises will amount to is purposely left a little mystery for the opening day of parliament. A very general opinion amongst outsiders is that the pilot balloon "Free Education" like another which was called "dissolution" was so antagonistic in its report of the direction of the wind amongst Government supporters, that what surplus there may be is more likely to go in replacing or strengthening 110 ton guns in view of possible difficulties in the "arbitration" of our dispute with Portugal and another with France in the Red Sea, than in giving free education to young "Fabians."

The book of the hour is "Fabian' Essays on Socialism." The first edition is already out of print. It is written by members of a so-called Fabian Club. Mr. George Bernard Shaw, a young Belfast man and author of the successful novel "Cashel Byron," writes the preface to the "Fabian Essays," as well as the first essay on "Economies," and the last on "Transition." The second essay, "Historical," meaning the historic evolution of Socialism, is by Mr. Sidney Webb, M.A., Oxford. The second, "Industrial," an excellent contribution, is by Mr. Clarke, B.A., Cambridge. The third, "Moral," the ethics of the question, is by Mr. Olivier M.A., Oxford. The fourth, "Property," is by Mr. Graham Wallas, M.A., Oxford. There are others which need not be named, as I am not going to review the book at present. But it reminds me of the "Essays and Reviews" of forty years ago, from a very different source and with a very different intent. We all know how that intent was taken up by science and consummated. And it will be thus with the "Fabian Essays." They cannot in a literary or intellectual point of view be compared with "Essays and Reviews," but they are a most interesting evidence of young England's ideas as to the old-fashioned political economy from Smith to Mill and Ricardo, which many worthy people still think it an irreverence to doubt.

You will read the essays, for yourselves and if they fail to convince you that Socialism is true, they will satisfy you that it is fairly amongst us and is a very different phase of thought to what you might imagine by reading the middle-aged stupidities either of M. de Laveleye or of that Spurgeon of science Huxley, on Rousseau and the Social Contract and "Utopias". As I expected, Professor Huxley's article has amazed the socialist writers at home and abroad who are now pounding him right and left. There is another thing that a careful perusal of the "Fabian Essays" may effect. When you see any of us turn from the ordinary political speeches of the day—of Mr. Goschen or even of Mr. Gladstone, with disgust, you will comprehend the feeling, even if you do not participate in it or commend it. I do not wish to overpraise the essays. In truth, the authors are still o'eryoung. But it is in the youth of the country we are to find the coming thoughts of the generation, however crudely the thoughts may now be expressed.

Mr. Bellamy, the author of "Looking Backwards," which first introduced socialism into middle-class parlours and young ladies' boudoirs of the Mudie circle of readers in England, is I see busy lecturing in the United States and trying to practically realise his dream by constituting a "Nationalist Party" as he calls it. The Fabians would say no, do not hurry, let gigantic farms, vast railway interests "rings" and "corners" and "trusts" do the work themselves. It is only a question of time, when, as in physical evolution, eternal agencies will by moral friction and the sloughing away of prejudice so prepare the way that the new earth will appear of a sudden and of itself, and without catastrophe. Mr. Davitt is forming a Labourers' Union or League in Ireland. He is to lecture in London on the Henry George theories. If this procedure is obnoxious to Mr. Parnell, Mr. Davitt promises to desist.

A NEW CURRENCY BILL.

HOW THEY GO ABOUT IT IN THE UNITED STATES.

Washington, Jan. 10.

Mr. Knox's Currency Bill provides for the issue of bank circulation in amount not exceeding seventy-five per cent. of the capital of each bank. Seventy per cent. of this seventy-five per cent. is to be absolutely secured by the deposit of the United States bonds at par, or the deposit of silver bullion at the market price. The other thirty per cent is not to be secured by a deposit of each bank, but is to be fully secured by a safety fund on deposit with the Treasurer. The safety fund is to be opened by crediting to the fund $1,500,000 of lost or unredeemed National bank notes and the same amount of lost or unredeemed United States notes. This safety fund will be increased each half year by adding to it the semi-annual tax of one per cent. upon circulation.

It is estimated that the lost and unredeemed National bank notes amount to at least one per cent during every twenty years, but only one half of the amount estimated to be lost is to be placed to the credit of the fund. These lost notes do not belong to the banks that issue them, neither do they belong to the Government. They belong to those persons who were the last owners of the notes, and cannot of course be restored to the owners. No other use can be so properly made of them as to appropriate the amount to create a safety fund for the redemption of insolvent National bank notes that may not otherwise be provided for.

The tax on circulation, which amounts now to about $1,400,000 annually, is abundant for creating and maintaining a sufficient fund for the absolute redemption of 30 per cent of all the issues of all the National banks. The Comptroller in his report for 1883 found by investigation that, as $100 of circulation had been issued during the first 20 years of the National banking system upon $700 of security, the total loss upon the notes of insolvent banks could have been paid from the assets of the bank. These losses are very small. The Comptroller's report for 1889 shows that during the last 25 years the total circulation of insolvent banks amounted to but fifteen mill on dollars; thirty per cent. of this amount would be but 3,500,000 dollars for twenty-five years. The amount of insolvent bank notes each year on the average was six hundred thousand dollars, thirty per cent of which would be a hundred and eighty thousand dollars annually. The tax on circulation during the past year was 1,410,331 dollars, or little less than eight times the amount of safety fund required. If the amount of circulation be increased to two hundred million dollars, the tax to be added to the safety fund will be two million dollars; if three hundred million dollars, it will be three million dollars; so that the amount to be added to the safety fund annually from the tax on circulation is, without doubt, abundantly sufficient to provide for thirty per cent of all the notes of the insolvent National banks of the country.

The profit on circulation under this proposition would not be large, but it would be sufficient to induce many, if not all, of the smaller National banks who depend upon an issue of circulation for their profits to induce them to deposit silver bullion with the Treasurer of the United States and take our circulation.

Mr. Knox estimates that, at the end of the next twenty years, or at the date of the payment of the four per cent bonds in 1907, a safety fund would have accumulated of at least twenty-five million dollars, so that from that time onward a sufficient amount of National bank circulation would remain permanently in existence, well secured by gold or silver bullion and sufficiently profitable to make the circulation large enough in connection with the present amount of United States notes to respond to the demand of the business of the country; it would also give the banks in the West as the East who have confidence in the future value of silver an opportunity to invest in that metal, and he believes that such investments would be made for the next three years, equal at least to twenty million dollars annually, and thus relieve the Treasurer from excessive purchases.—New York Commercial Bulletin.

PARIS LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent)

January 25th, 1890.

The French press seem to be getting tired of baiting England on the Portuguese conflict. Impartial observers concur that their attacks have been unfair and that the "blowing of the coals" has done more harm than good for European interests. It will not cement a good feeling between two nations that ought to remain friends. England's difficulty can never be France's opportunity.

Now that the bloom of indignation has disappeared, not only on the part of the Portuguese themselves, but on that of their impolitic "sympathisers", the cause and merits of the imbroglio will have a better chance of being examined. The French care very little about the amour propre of the Portuguese, but are deeply interested in cutting out England's trade with Portugal. It has been discovered that this is not the easy task that was imagined. Portugal's chief product is wine, and almost her only market is London. She cannot dispose of her produce except for cash or exchange produce. The French want no wine, neither do the Spaniards; but they want money for whatever they sell to Portuguese houses. Hence, the "no trade with England" cry is as imbecile and "mutile" as the "No Irish need apply."

In 1703 the Methuen Treaty was executed between England and Portugal; the latter in return for her textiles, etc., was accorded the entry of her wines into England at a lower rate than the wines of France and Germany. If France could break down that privilege of Portugal she might count upon a greater sale for her clarets; hence her indiscriminate siding with the Portuguese suggests a little of the "axe to grind" backing up. If England were to retaliate on the Portuguese by abolishing their privilege it was Finis Lusitanae.

I have been informed on excellent authority that England has amicably hinted to the Portuguese Cabinet, that if their customs officials lend their aid to the boycotting of English imports, the damage caused to English shippers will be rigorously appraised and added to the already big indemnity bill due for the buccaneering expedition of Colonel Pinto with the organised forces of Portugal and drafts of Indian troops from Goa. This latter step will, in the case of events being pushed to an extreme, not reoccur, as England, if she does not take over Goa, will place Portugal in the same position as France at Pondicherry, viz: tie her down to have no soldiers at Goa.

To break a commercial treaty is not exactly as easy as evading a political obligation. The latter "only" violates public morality and is of such frequent occurrence as to be met with a shrug of the shoulders. Were Portugal to compromise the Methuen treaty she would be held grimly responsible for the consequences. There is a prominent illustration at hand. France is bound to Germany by the commercial clauses, to say nothing of the others, of the Frankfurt treaty of 1871. Did she take the fit to repudiate its obligations, she would before six hours have the Uhlans across her frontier. At the Law Debating Society, a few evenings ago, the question discussed was: "Is England bound by the Congo Conference towards Portugal?" The orations were unanimous, that Portugal, having organised the Pinto expedition, to lay waste a disputed territory, put herself out of court. That the Congo Conference limited its territorial jurisdiction, and Portugal has not proved that the disputed region comes within the Conference boundaries; and lastly, Portugal has to produce her modern title deeds—Bismarck's "beati possidens"—to the region she has invaded. France could show the "trains" of her occupation—epoch thirteenth century and St. Louis—in Tunisia. But she did not base her modern grab on that time-roll, but on the Bardo treaty. And why may not the Italians, the head of the Latin race, and the lineal descendants of the Romans, not claim the whole of Northern Africa, on the strength of the "débris" of the occupation of their ancestors? Apart from every other question the Portuguese are incapable, not having the ways and means to open up any region of Africa, and civilization cries "halt!" to her attempts to play the dog-in-the manger. The late Portuguese ministry, in endeavouring to trick England, has been hoisted by its own petard.

The "talk" in the Chamber of Deputies on the "Cod and Lobster" difficulty with the Newfoundlanders was to have been a peace or war kind of discussion. It turned out to be nothing at all—so one must never take French newspapers "au tragique". Foreign Secretary Spuller, who has not only a large head literally but a sensible one, save when peddling periodically at the old joke of the evacuation of Egypt by the English, hinted that England and France, in Newfoundland, were like a married couple somewhat, and that it was best of both to give and take. He did not claim, however, that French gunboats ought to lay down the law within British waters.

The Chamber cut short the tactics of the Boulangist phalanx by expelling three of its members, for deliberately refusing to bow to the Speaker's ruling. It is useless considering whether the "expulses" were right: they were wrong in rebelling against the President of the Chamber. It is severe but not an unnecessary measure the majority intend to vote; that of giving the Speaker the power to excel a disobedient deputy from the House during an entire session. This involves the loss of half—12 50 frs.—his daily stipend and, some jurists add, of his privilege to ride free over the railroads.

The nation takes not the slightest interest in all these partisan politics. It wants the Government to be allowed to bring to a happy issue its financial reforms; to recast the railway rates for the transport of produce and merchandise, and to set to work to establish the revised customs' tariffs, in prevision of the year 1892, when all the commercial treaties fall in—a work more complex and Herculean than even French legislators imagine.

The murder of the bailiff Gouffe, who after being assassinated, was trussed, placed in a large trunk, transported to the neighborhood of Lyons, and then shot out into a rubbish depot in the environs of that city, has entered upon a new phase, by the unexpected arrival of the fille Bompard, who was accused of playing a leading role in the drama of July last. She was the mistress of Eryband, the man who committed the deed. She escaped, to America, passed on to Montreal, left Erybaud there, having found a new lover, and taken by remorse quitted Canada for Paris, and confessed the crime to the police.

Out of all her contradictions and untruthfulness, the story of the murder has been unravelled. The victim loaned money on the sly, at shent per shent interest; he had sub-agents and creatures to transact the usurious work, he lying in the back ground. Eryband and another were instruments; the former executed the plot to balance all outstanding accounts and liabilities by killing Gouffe and robbing him of his papers to thus destroy all evidence of liability. Gouffe was a man upon town; he had a lust for the girl Bompard; she was the decoy duck that led the unfortunate man to come to a private apartment specially rented near the Palace of the Elysee, which proved to be his "abattoir. Erybaud was concealed in the curtains, and felled Gouffe by a blow, said to be peculiar to cattle grasiers in South America. Rendered insensible, his head was battered in to destroy possible recognition; then he was sewn up in oil cloth—after being stripped of his clothing—and canvas, and placed in the prepared trunk, till carted to the railway terminus for Lyons, accompanied by the culprits. After killing Gouffe, Erybaud took the victim's keys, proceeded to his office, and stole important papers. Then, aided by his family, Erybaud and the girl Bompard sailed for America. It is quite the sensational event.

The death of the Duc d'Aosta was respectfully treated by the French press, though the Italians and the French do not just now stable their horses together. He was a good, all-round man, quiet, genial, and inoffensive. There was nothing specially remarkable in his talent as a soldier. He will be best remembered by his misfortunes. For two years he was crucified on the dangerous crown of Charles V.—though a good mechanical king, the Spaniards would have none of him—he was a foreigner; they kept that fact green in the Iberian mind by alluding to him only as "Macarroni I." He lost his first wife as a consequence of his mad plunge at the Spanish crown: it broke her health and heart. A year ago he married his own niece, and leaves his widow a young daughter; he has grown up and married sons by his first marriage. Politically, his death will not be missed.

M. Meissonier has succeeded in forming his new Society of French Artists—all the seceders; his Salon will be held in the Champ de Mars, the parent Society's as usual, in the Palace of Industry. Young talent has thus a double opportunity of coming to the front.

PAYSANDU GOSSIP.

Several transactions have lately taken place in house property. Mr. Lopes has sold to the Engineers of the Railway a well built house in Calle Junto Economico and Messrs. Horta Hos. have bought two beautiful dwelling houses, one in Calle Queguay and the other in Calle Sarandi. The Horta family are not only investing freely in house property. Mr. Clemente Oporto, another careful investor, has several new houses under construction. At the present moment forty seven new houses are being built here and many more will be begun this year.

We hear that eight squares of valuable land, splendidly situated, will shortly be thrown on the market; plans are now being prepared and small lots will be easily secured cheaply and on advantageous terms of payment. Mr. Mariano Comus is entrusted with the sales, of whom plans may be obtained.

Our camps are in splendid grass and the cattle generally in good condition, the saladeros are killing freely and prices have an upward tendency. A great demand for well bred rams has sprung up. The Cabaña Loraine has sold all on the Estancia remaining with about 150 young rams, sons of the celebrated imported sires, Prince of Wales and Bismark. These fine animals promise to realize the great expectations hoped for from the introduction of these two pure sires in the flocks. Sheep have advanced fully 50 o/o in price and high figures have been paid for well bred animals Messrs Campbell and Co. have introduced a new breed into the Department. They are a long woolled variety and trace their origin to a score of pure Leicester ewes bought in 1818 by the present breeder's father, Mr Aylmer, but owing to the in-breeding the Leicester got too refined, and to counteract this and give additional size, the blood of the far famed lustre-wools of Lincolnshire was introduced and an animal was produced which better suited the market. After a decade of cross breeding the present owner of the flock, Mr Hugh Aylmer, saw a reason to think that a combination of the Cots, wold blood would be an improvement and the best rams procurable were secured for crossing purposes. Persevering in this course and after a time carefully interbreeding, his flock has become uniform in character, of great size and length of wool, a shearling tup once clipped 22 lbs. of wool which sold for 2/6 per lb.

These animals imported by Messrs Campbell and Co., have been distributed to the Estancias of Las Delicias, Santa Rita and La Favorita. The rams will be put to mestizo Leicester and Lincoln ewes. We shall watch with interest the results of this cross. The sheep themselves are splendid, their deep ribs, wide bucks, large hind quarters, silky lustrous wool attract the attention of all interested in sheep breeding.—R. P. Times.

DASTARDLY ATTACK ON MR. HEARNE.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

Alberti, Feb. 1890

Dear Sir,—

The inhabitants of this quiet neighbourhood were suddenly thrown into a state of the wildest excitement and terror at the frightful news that a band of robbers and assassins had attacked Mr. Edward Hearne's store, with intent to murder all hands and sack the place. This store is situated 2½ leagues west of Alberti on the Cranwell "testamentaria." It is a spacious brick building and equal to any "almacen" in the camp in point of "surtido", and is surrounded for leagues by flourishing chacras and estancias who employ a great number of hands during the harvest. As the "Almacen Ingles" is prominently situated, there is a gathering of all nationalities to be found there generally: so that nobody is prevented from entering the house until it is shut for the night. Not the least suspicion of foul play was entertained of some eleven footmen who dropped in at nightfall on the 10th inst. and made their supper on "salami" and bread, and then got leave to pass the night in the "ramador" attached to the store. Next morning, after thanking Mr. Hearne for his hospitality, they went their way Next evening, about sun-down, the same gang began to drop in in twos and threes until the 11 mustered, as on the night previous. They seemed very affable, saying they were getting a job next day. But all this was only to lull their intended victims into a sense of security; and, awaiting the moment when none but Mr. Hearne and his employes were in the shop, the bloodthirsty wretches deliberately fired on the unoffending, defenceless people. At length the critical moment came when the cold blooded assassins would hurl four fellow-creatures into eternity, and this for the sole purpose of plunder. While Mr. Matthew Dillon, the head clerk, was in the act of arranging their accounts, one of the bandits fired on him with a gun. The wounded man rushed to the door, and received another bullet in the shoulder; and as Mr Hearne turned to ascertain what was wrong, four or five guns and revolvers were levelled at him, two balls passing through his clothes; at the same time Manuel Amada, the peon, rushed out of the store, followed closely by two of the murderers, who shouted to each other to knife him; but Manuel, favored by the darkness, threw off his pursuers and reached a neighbour's house and gave the alarm. Meantime three more jumped over the counter in pursuit of a boy-clerk who bolted through the deposit door. In their eagerness to finish the poor boy they fell over each other in the door-way, which gave him time to escape. When Mr. Hearne recovered from the first shock, he ran through the smoke to his private apartment, and, armed with a rifle, went in search of Mr. Dillon, whom he supposed to be dead or dying about the premises. But Mr. Dillon, wounded as he was, had had strength to reach Mr. Jas. Murray's gate house, and was taken immediately to Mr. Murray's estancia.

This all took place between eight and nine at night, and almost immediately the neighbors were up in arms in chase of the bandits; word being sent from one house to the other and telegrams to all the stations, and at an early hour next morning the band was ferreted out from their hiding places—three at Larrea station, one close to Bragado, one at Alberti, three at Benitez station, and another trio were nabbed at Sr. Moras' estancia eight leagues from the scene of the assault.

The police and people are worthy of the highest praise and commendation for the energy and self-sacrifice displayed in bringing those red-handed villains to justice. According to their declarations they hail from the Island of Sicily, and all hold for a trade, and up to this writing, plead innocent, except one who was roughly handled when captured, confessed that some of the band came direct from Buenos Aires a few days before, having been assured the robbery could be easily accomplished in the camp, and joined the rest with the intention of murdering all at Mr. Hearne's store; sack the place and set it on fire to leave no trace of foul play; and that there were two outside keeping watch, which made thirteen in all. But up to this only eleven have been taken, although the greatest vigilance is kept at all the railway stations.

Words fail to convey to my readers the remotest idea of the appearance of the place after the raid. The door way where Mr. Hearne was standing at the time is literally riddled with bullets, folds of cloth and tea caddies were perforated as if an army had fired on the place. Nothing can be more evident than that the hand of Providence saved those good people from their would-be murderers at that critical moment.

The greatest sympathy is felt by all who know Mr. M. Dillon, and earnestly hope for his speedy recovery, as his frank genial manner, has gained him the friendship and esteem of all who have come in contact with him. He got one bullet-wound through the right arm, and another under the joint of the left shoulder. The doctors have pronounced him out of danger, and say there is still a ball in the flesh.

Although this may seem behind time, the object is to clear up all conflicting accounts that are current. I can vouch for this as a plain statement taken on the spot, and now it remains for justice to do its work. We all appeal for strict justice in this case We ask you, Mr. Editor to be so kind as to put your shoulder to the wheel and by your pen and influence help us to rid the country of such vagabonds.

I am yours truly,

Bragadero.

FIGURES IN RELATION TO MR GLADSTONE'S SPEECH

The proposed new American scheme of naval construction, to which Mr. Gladstone alluded in his speech at Chester, involves the building and completion between the present time and the close of the year 1903 of ten battleships, each of 8,000 tons, and costing in all £10,000,000, eight battleships, each of 8,000 tons, and costing in all £8,000,000, twelve battleships, each of 7,000 tons, and costing in all £10,800,000 five battleships, each of 6,000 tons, and costing in all £3,500,000, ten armoured rams each of 3,500 tons, and costing in all £3,600,000; nine belted cruisers, each of 6,250 tons, and costing in all £5,940,000 four deck-protected cruisers, each of 7,400 tons, and costing in all £2,800,000; nine deck-protected cruisers, each of 5 400 tons and costing in all £5,040,000; two deck-protected cruisers each of 4,000 tons and costing in all £320,000; five despatch vessels, each of 1,200 tons, and costing in all £500,000; three depot ships, each of about 14,500 tons and costing in all 1,200,000l.; and fifteen torpedo gun-vessels, each of 900 tons, and costing in all 1,500,000l. The total number of ships is 92; the total estimated expense of construction, 53,700,000l. This means that the vessels are to cost, one with another, about 109l. a ton. Mr. Gladstone expressed his opinion that the work would probably cost much more in America than it would in England. Examination of the cost of recent British ships of equivalent classes reveals the fact that, taken all round, the outlay has been only at the rate of about 50l. a ton. Protection, therefore, may be said to add, not Mr. Gladstone roughly put it, "40 or 50 per cent." but over 84 per cent. to the cost of constructing warships.

Mr. Gladstone's lost figures are easily found. He wanted to show at Chester how Scotch measures had been treated at Westminster, and said, as we reported yesterday, I wish I had the figures with me here. Unfortunately I have lost them." We find them set forth by Mr. John Leng, M.P. for Dundee, in The Westminster Review. They show that the great majority of the Scotch members were over-ridden by the English Tory majority on twelve important proposals. If we add proposals and votes together we find that what the Scotch wanted to do by 530 votes to 158 the House of Commons overruled by 1,842 to 1,288. As to the details, 53 Scotch members were for devoting the Highland grant of 30,000l. to free education. Only ten Scotch members objected, but the ten carried the day with English Tory help. The will of ten Scotch members was in the same way assisted to override 52 who wanted to give County Councils the right to maintain and protect public rights of way. Forty three were for giving County Councils the control of the police and eighteen against The will of the eighteen prevailed, and so on throughout the twelve cases. These twelve cases are being used as twelve arguments for Home Rule.

Railway Items

Messrs. Sanford and Clark's protest against the decree rescinding the Andine Railway contract was published by several papers yesterday. The document is very lengthy and sets forth that the company were not desirous of leasing the railway. Their conditions were for the purchase, but as the line could not be handed over to them free of obligations, the lease was forced on them. The lease was paid up to October, and since then the amount of lease has been sunk in improvements and repairs. The delays in the payment of the purchase-money was due to the alarm caused in London by the news of the suspension of the East Argentine Railway, and capitalists would not advance the money except on the condition that the Government would not suspend the guarantee. The company state that they should claim damages and not the Government, and they deny the right of the Government to annul the contract.

In the course of the month which closes to day a good deal of work has been accomplished on the Monte Caseros and Corrientes railways in course of construction The total cubic thrown up is now 5,030,000 metres, of which 210,000 correspond to February. The earthworks stretch over 520 kilometres, 20 kilometres having been done during the month. The number of bridges completed is 220, and the rolling-stock at work is 20 locomotives, 228 wagons 27 carriages. The number of men employed 4800, quite an army of navvies.

Mac Gee's book on curves, for which inquiry was recently made in this column, is in sale at Mackern and Maclean's.

An exchange of the 18th ult. says in regard to the Buenos Ayres and Rosario Railway:—"The directors of this company announce that, for the purpose of providing funds for the construction and equipment of the extensions of the railway and for the general purposes of the company, the board have, under the authority conferred upon them by the special resolution passed on April 11th, 1889, and confirmed on April 26th, 1889, decided to issue the 100,000 shares of £10 each then created, and that such shares shall be offered, in the first instance for subscription at par, to the members of the company registered on the 1st inst., in the proportion of one new share for every four shares (whether Preference, Sunchales Extension, or Tucuman shares) or £40 of ordinary stock, or as near as possible thereto, avoiding fraction. These shares will be called Extensions shares, and will carry interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the instalments for the time being called up thereon, until December 31st, 1894, after which date they will rank in all respects "pari passu" with, and become part of the ordinary stock of the company. The first instalment of £3 upon every share accepted must be made on or before the 31st inst.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Yesterday was a pet day here, with the drawback of just enough wind to make wearers of tall hats slightly anxious lest they should part company with them at half a second's notice. In Montevideo, however, the clerk of the weather was in a furious humor for the greater part of the day, so much so that all the war vessels in port had steam up, and there was some damage done afloat and ashore. Mr. Herrera's manifesto has enthused our Oriental neighbours to an unusual degree, and the amount of "rising sun" business going on is quite a caution. The manifesto is certainly a very clever document.

The influenza epidemic was again on the increase yesterday, due to the cooler weather. We remark also an increase of timidity in reference to this disease and much less inclination to treat it with the same hoighty-toighty fashion as when it first broke out.

Wheat is falling in price in the colonies of Santa Fe—3.50 mm in Esperanza—and farmers look uncomfortably blue. Everybody else up there looks radiant, as the two greatest of Be—Bread and Beef—are cheap Would that they were so in poor Buenos Ayres!

There is a funny scandal reported from Tucuman—a tailor married by force to a pretty school teacher. How this was managed the telegram does not state, so we await our exchanges from that quarter for details, but it must have been a serious case, as the Courts have quashed the marriage, the tailor is again a free man, the teacher has been dismissed from her post, and her father, brother, witnesses, and even the man

WILSON SONS & Co. LIMITED

AGENTS: BUENOS AYRES, Cangallo 34. IN MONTEVIDEO, Solis 55. RIO D

All sorts of rumours were current on 'Change this evening about the morrow, which some look forward to as another black Friday, the pressure on the market being National Bank Shares, which they say will be forced on the market to-morrow, bringing them down to par and even under. We offer no opinion, but report the market. The large amount of money required to hold up the National Share market even at par, it was whispered, has been already arranged, which would seem to indicate what a fresh emission has at last been decided on as the only possible way of helping the whole market. What truth there is in this difficult to say, but some of the most influential brokers on 'Change believe that it is authentic, and to-morrow's liquidation will settle the question.

Exchange rules flatter than ever; brokers quote 47½ to ½, but some report first-class commercial paper passed to-day at 47, and at 4.96 on Antwerp. The Banco de Italia, having drawn a heavy amount in small bills over the counter, has taken for the Italian mail largely.

The Pomona arrived at Bahia Blanca yesterday, bringing over forty first-class passengers who came on in the train, as the steamer went back to Patagones for wool. Dr. Molina and family arrived up by train to-day. Colonel Bronstedt also arrived up from the South.

Dr. Mesquito, who has just arrived from Europe, was warmly welcomed on 'Change by his numerous friends: also Captain Shand from Entre Rios, Mr. Harilaos, Argentine Consul at Naples, who has come out for a pleasure trip to the Plate, and Dr. Andrews, of London, who has come up from San Blas. Mr. Pealer, the well-known American contractor, has arrived up from Montevideo, and was also welcomed.

We regret to announce the death of Dr. Zoa Fernandez, of Montevideo, a well-known merchant and saladerista, of that market, and also Senator.

The death of Mr. Charles Stewart Browning, director of the Bank of Paraguay, and of the Paraguay Land Company, was announced to-day, and caused widespread sorrow in English circles, being much esteemed by all who knew him.

Mr. Castel's letter published in this evening's Diario, was the talk of all the Bolsa. Mr. Castel was on the Bolsa to-day and we are happy to say the letter in question has silenced the rumours afloat yesterday. It appears that Mr. Castel is one of the largest holders of stocks, which have fallen in value, but he owes nothing in the market.

The publication of Messrs. Clark and Sanford's protest about the rescinding of the sale of the Andine railway produced rather a better effect and threw new light on this much discussed subject. It is to be hoped that the matter will be arranged satisfactorily, as the interests at stake are very serious and it is much feared that the question will materially prejudice the sale of the Western Railway.

Advices from the camp districts are most favourable; prices for cows, sheep, mares, wool, hides and skins have all advanced. All the almaceneros and pulperos in the camp are doing a splendid business this year and not only owe nothing here in town, but have large balances in their favor; we hear of sales of novillos at 25 m/n and sheep farmers whose income from wool is double what it was last year. A great number of parties have left the city and commenced sheep farming; good sheep are in great demand and also camps suitable for sheep, but people complain of the monstrous wages they have to pay, wages being now double what they were a few years ago. The alfalfa business is paying better than ever and we hear of farmers who are ploughing up all their land and sowing alfalfa.

Government will shortly sign the adreferendum contract with Mr E.L.E Thomas for the opening of the Argentine Transatlantic Line of steamers.

A new cooperative stores company is on the tapis with a capital of 2,000,000 dollars.

Business at the second hour was very brisk, but the gold quotation continued to advance, shewing that the market was oversold. It seems, however, that there is now but little to be done to close the liquidation, so that a great squeeze is not looked for. This should ease the market, and it was noted that for end of March the rates declined from 238 to 236.50. For to-morrow the price opened at 234, fluctuated between 233 and 235, and left off very stiff at 234.80. Stocks were not to say freely dealt in, but there was a trifle more animation. National Bank Shares opened at 143 and, improving at every sale, left off at 150. Municipal Lottery Bonds, which were done yesterday at 37, improved to-day to 42.50. Catalinas and Constructors were quiet, Agricola y Comercial weak at 32, and Cedulas just a trifle better. Nothing else was done.

The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—

Affairs in Montevideo are improving most steadily, which is a good sign, considering that the country is on the eve of changing Presidents. Stocks are all advancing steadily.

According to last advices rain fell yesterday at the following places: Las Heras, Monte, Ayacucho, Tandil, Dolores, Quilmes, 25 de Mayo, Las Flores, Zapiola, Alvear, Juarez, Ajo, Castelli, Chascomus, Lincoln, Tapalque, Lobos, Constitucion, San Vicente, Jeppener, Guerrero, Maipu, Arbolito, Mar de Plata, Gonzalez Chavas, Tres Arroyos, Ranchos, Salado, Olavarria, La Gama, Pigue. Tiempo ventoso en Naposta. Nuvlado hoy en Lomas, Adores, Arbolito, Mar del Plata, Ayacucho, Tandil, Juarez, Salado, Cachari, Azul and Olavarria.

The president of the Banco Colonizador Nacional has addressed a note to the National Government advising the latter that the bank has 201,634 hectares divided up into farm lots for immigrants, and which can accommodate over two thousand families. The Minister of Foreign Affairs has endeavored to postpone or retard the arrival of immigrants from the North of Europe until such time as the Government has fiscal lands measured out in lots to give them, but this offer settles the difficulty and the more that like to come now, the better. The bank will sell to the colonists at five years.

|---|---|
| Properties mortgaged to private parties | 103 |
| Ditto to Banco Hipotecaria Nacional | 24 |
| Ditto to Banco Hipotecaria de la Capital | 1 |
| Ditto to Spanish Bank | 1 |
| Ditto to Joint Stock Companies | 17 |
| Ditto to the National Treasury | 1 |

The foreclosures for the month amount to twelve, and foreclosures withdrawn eleven.

A valuable "testamentaria" case has come to a close, and Judge Matienzo has ordered five hundred thousand dollars deposited in the Provincial Bank to be divided among the heirs.

The gremio of moneybrokers is about to be reinforced by the admission of a new batch of applicants, who passed muster at the last meeting of the Camara Sindical. Messrs. S. Barmotto, G. Castro, R. M. Palacios, F. Porcel and J. Guerrico are now full fledged brokers, and Messrs. J. Andazabal, J. Arroyo and Geoffrey Guinness candidates for the honor.

Yesterday's Diario under the heading of "a rumored failure," announced the failure of one of the leading dealers on 'Change who, although the name was not given, was easily identified as Mr. Castells. That there could have been no doubt about this is tacitly acknowledged by the Diario publishing to-day the following letter from Mr. Castells, which shews that his reported failure is a "canard":—

"To the Editor of the Diario.

"Dear Sir:

Whilst sick in Villa Elisa, I have read in your valuable paper, under yesterday's date, a paragraph in which although no name is given I am reported bankrupt and about to hand over my properties to creditors.

"As such a notice is simply a malicious Bolsa canard of which you have been made the victim, I must ask you to contradict it.

"I am not a bankrupt, as I owe nothing in the Bolsa where, on the contrary, I have debtors for some millions lent against stocks and which I do not call in, at my cost, in order to avert a catastrophe.

"Please insert in a prominent position, etc.

Luis Castells."

More signs of the times were "en evidence" to-day in the shape of a Parisian bonnet shop and a fashionable jeweller's, both in Calle Piedad, being sold up. Diamonds and Paris fashions are now so out of place and demand that we expect to see decimation in those shops all over the city, and so much the better. The graceful mantilla will be able to raise its head again in place of the gaudy head-pieces that now rule the roast.

A new steamer called the Artigas was launched to-day from the Badaracco yard in the Boca. The Maritime Prefect has been duly notified to have the engines inspected.

NUEVA ESCOCIA

On March 16th next an auction will be held in this city, of lots inside the municipal limits, and also of quintas and haceras of this new town destined to prove itself another nucleus of industry and population.

Nueva Escocia is situated on the banks of the River Uruguay, in the camp belonging to Don Gmo. Shand (formerly Parker and Grenfell) and distant six leagues only from Concordia.

The fertility of these lands is notorious.

The National Government has just finished a port on the same land, with offices of customs duties, guard house, post, telegraph, etc., all the steamships on the Uruguay being obliged to put in there. This port will be the point of embarkation for all the produce of the Yerua Colony and the other establishments of the South and South-East of the Department, no other being in existence between Concordia and Villa Colon.

This town is drawn out in manzanas of 190 metres by 100, with streets 15 metres wide, the quintas being 16 hectareas, or say 400 metres by 400 metres and divided into four equal parts, with roads of 20 metres.

Purchasers who desire to build immediately can have bricks allotted to them at cost price, half a million already being on the camp.

Lately excavations have been made with the object of ascertaining the existence of calcareous stone, with the result that well informed persons say they have come across it of an excellent quality on the same bank of the river. Invitations will soon be sent out to all those interested in forming the acquaintance of this picturesque part of the country, and the plans of the projected town and colony of

will be promptly distributed.

De el Centro Agricola, General Sarmiento, en el partido de Junin, propiedad del Señor Julio Carrié, situado á 20 kilómetros de las estaciones de los ferro-carriles del Oeste y del Pacifico, y lindando con el ejido del pueblo y á 90 kilómetros del puerto San Nicolás. El ferro-carril concedido al general Teodoro Garcia cruzará este centro.

Estas tierras son especialisimas para la agricultura y conocida es la fama de que gozan los trigos de Junin y la especial demanda que tiene entre los molineros.

Llamamos la atencion de los agricultores sobre este centro, no solo por la calidad de la tierra sino por las ventajosisimas condiciones que se ofrecen para su adquisicion.

El Domingo, 2 de Marzo,

A las 12 del dia,

y sobre el mismo centro, despues de un almuerzo campestre, procederémos al remate del centro general Sarmiento bajo las bases y condiciones siguientes:—

73 chacaras de 50 hectáreas mas ó menos cada una con la base de 60 ps. hectárea y con hipoteca de 80 ps. en cédulas de 1ª série O. 16 quintas con base de 80 ps. hectárea y con hipoteca de 80 ps. en cédulas série O.

Los solares no tienen hipoteca y se venderán con la base de 10 centavos el metro cuadrado.

Las condiciones de pago son las siguientes. Haciéndose cargo los compradores de la hipoteca tomando las cédulas al precio de Bolsa el dia antes de la escrituracion, el excedente sobre el importe efectivo de las cédulas y el precio de compra lo abonarán mitad al contado y el resto á 6 meses de plazo.

Hasta hoy no se ha ofrecido un centro agricola en mejores condiciones para el pago. Pueden comprarse tierras con pequeños desembolsos, pues no se exige la diferencia del precio nominal de las cédulas, lo que importa la rebaja de un 40 o/o mas ó menos.

Creemos por consiguiente inútiles mayores recomendaciones y solo rogamos á los chacareros y agricultores se preocupen de este remate y visiten la tierra que ofrecemos en venta, pues creemos esta la mejor oportunidad de adquirirla en buenas condiciones.

Actualmente salen dos trenes para Junin, uno á las 7.50 a.m. que llega á las 3 p.m., y otro á la tarde que sale á las 4.30 p.m. y llega á las 11.20 p.m.

Los interesados deben tomar el tren de la tarde el dia antes de remate, pasando la noche en Junin y al dia siguiente, á las 9 de la mañana, tomar los carruajes que saldran del hotel del señor Valenti para llevar la concurrencia hasta el mismo centro.

Todo comprador sin excepcion abonará el 5 o/o sobre el importe total de su compra al firmar el boleto. Por planos y mas datos á nuestra casa Alsina 482.
